

EIT Digital Master School Student Ambassadors

EIT Digital Master School's Student Ambassadors are a group of current students and graduates who serve as representatives of the Marketing & Recruitment Office.

As part of the initiative, Student Ambassadors:

- Gain valuable work experience during their studies
- Develop their skills in communications, public relations, and marketing
- Build a fantastic international student network
- Receive training to develop their soft skills such as speaking in public, representing an organisation and addressing media in an international environment
- Get to travel and share their experience with other students

What do Student Ambassadors do?

- Answer prospective student questions such as: what it's like to transition to a new country and live abroad; academic life and campus resources; and simple program-related questions
- Promote the Master's School at their current university, previous undergraduate program university, or in other relevant channels (university groups, Facebook groups, events etc.)
- Gather and create student content for Social media, websites, articles etc.
- Take part in webinars created by the local EIT Digital coordinators and the Master School Office.
